SOUTHERN DEMOCRATS HOLD THE WHIP HAND

Two events which marked the start of the new 82nd congress will be the election of Senator McClellan of Texas to the Senate and the election of Senator McClellan of Texas to the Senate.

Both are able men, according to all accounts. But they were not the president's choices. They were the favorites, rather, of the powerful southern delegation, and they won enough other backing to come through handsily.

Their selection is a fact announcement to the south. They were not the president's choices. They were the favorites, rather, of the powerful southern delegation, and they won enough other backing to come through handsily.

With Republicans and southern Democrats combining a majority of seats in the Senate, the coalition of these forces is definitely in the driver's seat for the next two years. Legislation this congress will have to pass, after a two-year interlude, has regained its power to bottle up any and all bills under most circumstances.

As far as Fair Deal items go, in the house as in the senate the new events are chiefly symbolic. The proposals wouldn't have a chance any way given the present make-up of congress. But this action puts the official seal on their doom.

The Truman farm plan, the government health insurance program and similar features are to all intents and purposes dead, except as Mr. Truman may choose to use them for campaign issues. For a while, perhaps a long while, there's little prospect the so-called welfare state will advance its boundaries.

There won't be much bemoaning of this. The nation has its mind on other matters right now. It should be remembered, however, that the congressional power which can choke off Fair Deal proposals can also bring them back. The American people have a right to know that the Rules Committee's stranglehold on legislation is an especially tempting weapon for use in delaying or crippling administration bills not drafted to the lawmakers' taste.

For a long time it has been realized that there was need of a coalition of conservative Republicans and Southern Democrats in Washington. The president did everything he could to create this coalition by persisting in appointing the south. He offered legislation which was offensive to the south. He ignored the south in his deliberations. He made many derogatory statements concerning the attitude of southern leadership. Therefore, it was Mr. Truman personally who did much to help precipitate this coalition.

That this coalition can do much good is unquestioned. Radical leadership in Washington had gone so far as to go that extra step beyond being dogmatic. It became dictatorial. And when leadership in a democracy becomes dictatorial the situation is grave. It became so grave that conservative Southern Republicans joined with Southern Democrats to help thwart this radicalism. If Mr. Truman thought for one moment that he could attain the passage of civil rights legislation he would have assembled such a coalition. The war effort and the threat of trouble abroad would in no way have helped him. Only the force of his opposition has curtailed him. So we

McCARTHY PAYS RECORD $17,800 FOR STEER

Charlie Evans in Houston Chronicle
A new record was set when a steer at the Houston Fat Stock Show Friday was sold for $17,800.

It was the highest price ever paid by an individual for a steer show.

A higher price—$43,000—was paid a few years ago at the Kansas City stock show, but this was by a syndicate.

Mr. McCarthy said he bought the steer, a 795-pound Hereford, for the Shamrock Hotel, which he owns.

Then he turned around and donated the steer to the Arabia Temple Shrine.

The fabulous price paid for the steer, owned by Louis Reyes, 15-year-old high school student from San Antonio, was made by a combination of factors.

It tops by $2400 last year's record price of $15,400. Mr. McCarthy also bought the 1950 grand champion of the Houston show.

At the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago last December, the grand champion brought only $12,300.

The Houston champion went for an average of $22.39 per pound, while the Chicago champ sold for an average of $12.4 per pound.

Biggest price ever paid for a steer was $71,000 at last year's Shrine Cattle Show in Dallas.

Children's Bill here; but that chance was made by a combination of factors.

ON LECISLATION

Austin, February 3, 1961.

This marks-the closing of the third week of the 52nd Legislature. As anticipated, this session is about three weeks ahead of the 6ist session, as the first bill was introduced February 2 of that session.

The house passed two bills the past week the of which I know was of prime interest to the people of. Houston county and every citizen of Texas. This bill pertained to the control and regulation of the Communist party and their fellow travelers. Contrary [topopular] [uncertain] redistricting. The purpose of this meeting was to plan strategy to prevent east Texas from losing any representatives when redistricting bill comes up. The original bill put Houston, [Madigon] [uncertain] and Leon counties in my district. Considering the fact that we ate going to [havé] [uncertain] to take in some more territory in our district, made the proposal that, instead of including Madison and. [Legn—counties,] [uncertain] we include Walker county, This probably wont be agreeable to every one, but I believe it to be better. Houston county registered 5116 poll tax receipts while the combination of Leon and Madison counties polled 4590. Walker county polled 3349. Looking at it strictly from a selfish motive and home county proposition, it seems B to me we would be 1241 votes better off with Walker county in our district f than Madison and Leon. By using some simple arithmetic and common sense, we can prevent Houston county from becoming" a minority county in a representative district." Ax I have
