

DEADLINE SECURITY CARDS FARM AND DOMESTIC WORKERS

Household workers and farm employees who have been included in the social security program for the first time since January 1, 1951, must get social security account number card by April 30, 1951, L. R. James, manager of the Lufkin social security office, said.

Wages earned by these people during January, February and March, 1951, will be reported by their employers during April and the social security number of each worker must be included in the report. Household workers must be reported if they average two days or more per week for one employer, while a farm hand must work roughly five months straight before his work is covered by the law. These time limits are only general tests, James cautioned, and advised any one who isn't certain whether his workers must be reported to learn the exact provision of the law.

If the individual has never had a social security number, an application can be secured at any post office, employment service office or social security office. It should be completed in ink and mailed or brought to the social security office, Lufkin, Texas. A card bearing the applicant's name and social security number will be mailed immediately. The worker should then show the card to his employer, so that a record can be made of the number, James said.

Workers who have had such cards, but who have lost them, should file an application for a duplicate. The application is made on the same form as for a new number, but the form contains a question which informs the social security office that a duplicate number is required.

James added that all applications for numbers, either new or duplicate, should reach his office not later than April 18.

HUNTSVILLE DOWNS CROCKETT 36-19 WINS DISTRICT

The Huntsville High Hornets, coached by Quinton Lawrence, won the district 18-A basketball championship Thursday night by defeating the Crockett High Bulldogs 36 to 19 in the local gym. A strictly defensive first quarter saw Crockett lead most of the time, but a last second field goal, Huntsville's first of the game, put the visitors on top, 6-4. A Crockett rally in the second quarter pulled within a single point of the Hornets, but Huntsville pulled to a 16-13 margin at the long intermission.

Huntsville completely stifled the Crockett offense the second half and the Bulldogs missed most of the few shots they got. So the Hornets won, going away.

The gymnasium was packed for the contest.

Huntsville—Ellisor, 7, and Koehl, forwards; Gates, 11, center; Driscoll, 3, and Chandler, 11, guards; Coleman, 4, Forsy, Walton and Frazier, substitutes.

Crockett—Johnson, 5, and Morrow, forwards; Lillian, center; Arledge, 7, and Corbitt, 7, guards; Ferguson, Little and Worthy, substitutes.

COMMERCE CHAMBER HELPS TRAVELERS

The Crockett and Houston County Chamber of Commerce is proud of the new shelf and stand which has been recently placed in their office and which conveniently holds interesting leaflets and folders on sight seeing trips one might be interested in taking.

If you are planning a trip for this summer of 1951 or any time soon it would be well to visit the chamber of commerce office and look over the folders they have.

Of interest to garden lovers right now probably would be the tour known as the Natchez Pilgrimage which is March 3 through April. To complete the tour of all houses in this pilgrimage requires three days, as thirty houses are shown during the three days.

A number of Crockett's citizens have already made this tour and some have made the trip several times just to see these lovely gardens and homes "where the Old South still lives."

This year a program will be presented at the city auditorium at Natchez, the evening entertainment being called "The Confederate Pageant."

But then, this is just one of many folders the chamber of commerce has acquired for your convenience in planning a trip; in fact, at the present time they have folders and leaflets of interest from 45 of the 48 states; besides many air-line schedules.

Wintertime Supper for Teen-Age Cooks

A LONG about now, what's more fun than getting the gang together for a big whiff of the great outdoors? Might be a sleighride if there's snow. Or it might be ice skating if there's ice. Might even be asking if you happen to have a white-capped mountain handy. And in case all these fail, you can always take to bicycles or roller skates!

No doubt about it, the outdoors is really fine these late-winter days. But good as it is, it can't quite match up with the warmth and cheer of home when you bring everybody back to your house for supper. No fair coming in, though, until all of you are pink-cheeked and chilled to the bone! That's when food tastes its very best and the smell of steaming coffee seems like a breath of paradise.

How about homemade spaghetti and meatballs for supper? Serve it with a tasty grapefruit and avocado salad, plenty of warm garlic bread and a big pot full of the best coffee you know how to make. It's a wonderful meal for a gang, and best of all, you can make it all yourself. That is, you can have the spaghetti sauce and the meat balls made, the bread ready to be heated in the oven and the salad complete except for the last-minute dressing. If your mother really wants to help a bit, it would be fine if she'd have the coffee steaming and fragrant when you come in out of the cold. (Not, of course, that you can't make just as good coffee yourself!) She might have a kettle of boiling water all set for the spaghetti, too. Mothers are nice people to have around the house, aren't they? Here's an all-your-own recipe for spaghetti with meat balls and tomato sauce. This is enough to serve eight generously.

Meat Balls
2 lbs. ground beef 1 tsp. pure mono-
1/2 tsp. salt 1/2 tsp. onion salt
1/2 tsp. pepper 1/2 tsp. tomato
1 onion salt catchup

Combine all ingredients, mix thoroughly. Roll in balls about one inch in diameter and saute in olive or salad oil until brown.

Quick Tomato Sauce
2 garlic cloves, 1/4 tsp. oregano
minced 1 tsp. olive oil
1 cup grated 1 tsp. salt
onion 1/2 tsp. pepper
4 root cans tomato sauce

Cook garlic and onion in oil five minutes over low heat or until onion is soft, but not brown. Add tomato sauce and simmer 20 minutes. Add seasonings and simmer 10 minutes longer. Remove garlic cloves.

To serve, mix sauce gently with hot, freshly cooked spaghetti. Place meat balls on top. If sauce and meat balls are prepared in advance, be sure to re-heat thoroughly before serving.

Way to Avoid Trouble.

Editor Herb Saal had to correct his youthful reporter. "Never say that every member of the Fourth Ward Political Club takes graft."

"But they all do."

"Yes, I know," said the editor, "but let's avoid trouble. Say that every member of the club, with one exception, takes graft. Then no member of the club will feel personally offended." Laughter Is Legal.

Let's Do Our Own Reading.

The best thing the talking pictures did was to put a stop to the fellow's mouth who always wanted to read the lines to you in the show when you wanted to do your own reading. The next thing we hope to see a stop put to is the fellow who wants to read to you something in a newspaper that interests himself at a time when you want to do your own reading. People who lead busy lives do not have much chance for reading, and they hate to have that little time taken up by other people reading to them. Like it used to be in the picture show, they like to do their own reading.
