DAVY CROCKETT TRINITY COUNTY SOIL CONSERVATION

John Stapleton, whose farm is located two miles southwest of Huntington, is putting in a meadow strip to be used as a collective outlet for terraces. A good terrace outlet is very much like a good foundation for a building. In terrace construction the first consideration should be a proper outlet for the terraces. There are many terrace systems that have done more damage as far as soil erosion is concerned than good, due to improper outlets. Now is the time to start preparation for outlets. A good outlet can serve more than just an outlet for terraces. It can be used as a hay meadow or for supplementary pasture.

I. I. Bradshaw, whose farm is located three miles east of Grapeland, is well pleased with his Silinety peas for nitrogen improvement. Mr. Bradshaw has 75 acres of Silinety peas at the present. He started with a few acres three years ago and has planted more each year. Mr. Bradshaw is looking forward to a good seed harvest from the peas so he can plant more of his pasture.

Isidor Krenke, whose farm is located approximately five miles north-east of Lovelady, has worked up a farm plan on the farm with assistance of personnel of the Soil Conservation Service. The plan includes sound land use to insure conservation of the soil and water. Mr. Krenke is interested in pasture improvement on this farm, and some of the practices he will carry out to improve his pastures are clearing, use of adapted legumes and proper fertilization.

Wallace Adams, cooperator whose farm is located about seven miles west of Lovelady, has received good results by top dressing his cover crops and oats with nitrogen fertilizers. Mr. Adams' fall planted oats and velvet and abuzzi rye and vetch. A few days before the snow this winter he applied his top dressing of nitrogen fertilizers. The rye, oats and legumes looked pretty sick for awhile, but you should see them now. Mr. Adams said: "Several people have asked me if top dressing pays. I think if they could see where I have top dressed it would answer their questions. You can tell easily where we skipped spots in putting out the fertilizers."

Conservation Sam sez: "There is an old saying, 'A friend in need is a friend indeed.' This can be applied to winter feed for livestock, and now is the time to start work on your meadows for hay you may need this winter."

CROCKETT NACOGDOCHES HUNTSVILLE WIN

The Crockett All-Stars, the Lumberjacks of Nacogdoches and the Sam Houston All-Stars of Huntsville won victories in the first round of the invitation basketball tournament for independent teams Monday night at the high school gym and qualified for championship play Wednesday night. Two teams failed to appear.

In the opening game Owens paced Crockett to a 60 to 58 victory over Diboll. The home team held a 30-16 margin at half-time, but a furious rally by Diboll almost closed the gap in the closing minutes. Owens accounted for 26 points, while Evans got 25 for the losers. The second game saw Nacogdoches put on a phenomenal shooting exhibition the first half and hold off a spirited rally by Indian Village to win by a 69 to 62 margin. Fulmer paced the winners with 20 points, while E. Battise got 19 and W. Battise 17 for the Indians.

Score by quarters:
Indian Village 10 26 39 62
Nacogdoches 23 42 55 69
The Huntsville All-Stars won hands-ly, 62 to 43, over the smaller Polk Oilers. The Sam Houston basketball team displayed a good eye for the basket. Sewell paced the winners with 22 points, while Brock was high for the Oilers with 13.

Score by quarters:
Polk Oilers 15 21 30 43
Huntsville 22 38 56 62

SON GIVEN $21,000 FOR AID IN DEAL

Dallas News.

Washington, March 5.—Sen. James E. Murray (Dem.) of Montana urged the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to lend $1,000,000 to a Miami Beach luxury hotel which retained his son as attorney, a senate investigation committee revealed Monday.

The loan, to the Sorrento Hotel, was granted and James E. Murray Jr., son of the senator, received a $21,000 fee for helping on it and two other loans—to the Saxony Hotel and to the American, on down to the Texas

Recent photograph of a Texas primary highway

Damaged highways, such as the Texas highway shown in this picture, are a hazard to the safe operation of automobiles, farm trucks and other motor vehicles.

It costs three times as much to build roads that will withstand the loads of big trucks now being operated over them than it does for the smaller trucks and automobiles.

Latest records show $115,282,344 was spent on Texas highways for the year ending August 31, 1950.

A bill sponsored by the big truck operators is before the Texas Legislature. This bill proposes . . .

(1) to increase the load limit from the present 48,000 pounds to 72,000 pounds, and

(2) to increase the maximum truck length from 45 feet to 50 feet.

Recent official highway tests at La Plata, Md., sponsored by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, the highway departments of eleven states and the District of Columbia, effectively demonstrated that as trucks increased in size and loads, roads cracked up and "died" more quickly.

We need to safeguard our highways for Civilian and Military use. "Increased heavy loading might seriously disrupt the effectiveness of essential routes in the event of an all-out war," according to T. J. Kauer, director of the Ohio Highway Department and Chairman of the La Plata road test committee.

Damaged highways, such as the Texas highway shown in this picture, are a hazard to the safe operation of automobiles, farm trucks and other motor vehicles.

It costs three times as much to build roads that will withstand the loads of big trucks now being operated over them than it does for the smaller trucks and automobiles.

Latest records show $115,282,344 was spent on Texas highways for the year ending August 31, 1950.

72,000 pounds, and

[(2)] [uncertain] to increase the maximum truck length from 45 feet to 50 feet.

Recent official highway tests at La Plata, Md. sponsored by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, t highway departments of eleven states and the District of Columbia, effectively demonstrated that as trucks increased in size and loads, roads cracked up and died" more quickly.

We need to safeguard our highways for Civilian and Military use. Increased heavy loading might seriously disrupt tho effectiveness of essential routes in the event of an all-out war," according to T. J. Kauer, director of the Ohio Highway Department and Chairman of the La Plata road test committee.

THIS IS A TUG-OF-WAR BETWEEN THE BIG TRUCKERS AND THE TAXPAYERS OF TEXAS!

Automobiles and small trucks do not require extra strong, extra costly highways. The truth is, that the big truckers are putting the pinch" on the pocketbooks of the Texas taxpayers.
