FRANKNESS AS A TEST

Senator Fulbright's suggestion for a commission to examine the moral status of government is timely. It is to be hoped that it does not fall on deaf ears.

From the standpoint of plain old-fashioned honesty, the tragedy of the Democratic administration since 1933 has been that it has exhibited a low standard of political morality and integrity. There is no assertion here that the men who have populated Washington in that period have been dishonest about their private lives, but they have seemed distressed that anyone should think there is wrong in what they have done.

Senator Murray, under fire, faced the music the other day with the equanimity of outrage. It is all right for him as a senator to use his influence with the R.P.C. to get a loan for a company from which his son would get a high fee. It is all right to accept free lodging from a hotel with interests in Washington. Everybody's doing it, so it must be OK.

It is possible, of course, that old-fashioned integrity in public office is out of fashion. It is possible that the public will continue in Senator Murray what he condones in himself. But it would be interesting to have the test made before instead of after taking.

In other words when our Senator Murray—there are many of him—offer for place, why not publicize their idea of official morality. Let's have them face the voters with a statement of what they will do when they get in office, what gratuities they will not accept, and why.

Let the voter decide, knowing the facts. Dallas News.

QUEER DEAL ERA PRODUCES O'DWYER

The fact that William O'Dwyer, army officer, went over on "possibly twice" to see Gambler Frank Costello and then subsequently became mayor of New York, obviously does not prove that O'Dwyer is Costello's man. O'Dwyer swears that he went to see Costello as a part of the duty of military investigation of army contacts.

But it is a matter of common belief, if not of common knowledge, that Costello is a political power in New York and that he was a power in city politics during the tenure by O'Dwyer of the mayor's office. In fact, events suggest that O'Dwyer got out of office with more haste than glory. His appointment to the United States as ambassador to the Republic of Mexico looks now like an attempt of the president to get O'Dwyer out of office.

The problem before the white house now, it seems, is how to howl O'Dwyer out of the embassy of Mexico City. Possibly a vacancy on the supreme court is in prospect? Dallas News.

SAM IS SCANDALIZED

RFC atmosphere, call for picketing and gun smoke. Mind you, famous route in White House offices. Tom Clark and the supreme court take the the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth without use of whitewash. The country is concerned with the mayor of New York city may have done. It has a very vital interest in the character and integrity of its ambassador. Dallas News.

FULBRIGHT ETHICS SURVEY

Senator Fulbright suggests the naming of a committee for a general survey of "morals and ethics in government." Since congress would be subject to such a survey, he thinks that the committee should be entirely independent of government, including congress.

HIGHWAY BOXCAR

Representatives of the trucking industry are fighting several bills pending in the Texas legislature. The bills are intended to tighten enforcement of present regulations of trucks on the highways. The truckers are especially bitter about a bill to permit officers to unload trucks on the spot where they are stopped.

A trucker's spokesman in Austin recently said such a law would make it impossible for the judge and jury to find the driver has no license to drive it, the officers have the authority to require the vehicle to be left there until a licensed driver shows up to operate it.

And as for unintentional overloading of trucks, it is high time the truckers intentionally stayed within the law. If the officers can determine the weight of a truck cargo, the truckers should be able to.

There has been a great deal published about the damage overloading trucks have done to our highways. The truck industry has tried hard to make it appear that the agitation came solely from the railroads, the truckers' chief competitor. But that is not the case. It is not just a fight between two rival industries, it is a struggle in which the public has the greatest interest.

It is taxpayers' money that builds and maintains our highways, and highway engineers say those highways are being worn out rapidly by overloaded trucks. There are only two methods of stopping the overloading. One is by enforcement of new regulations to take the profit out of overloading. The other is voluntary obedience to the laws and to public opinion.—Houston Chronicle.

WRONG MAN IN CHAIR

There are times when action in the house of representatives indicates that the wrong man is sitting in the speaker's chair. Tuesday was one such occasion when the branch of congress voted down the legislation which would have given President Truman emergency powers to reorganize government departments.

The Democratic leadership was able to hold only 161 votes for this administration measure. A total of 60 Democrats failed to follow Sam Rayburn's leadership for one reason or another.

It would be different if the experience were a new one for Mr. Rayburn, but it has happened many times now. The 161 votes which the speaker was able to muster when the chips were down Tuesday appear to be about all that he can count on through the end of the legislative session.

The remaining Democrats of the 233 total membership refuse to follow his leadership or that of Representative John McCormack when the President calls for action contrary to the concepts of Jeffersonian democracy or demands an increase in taxes at the expense of the legislative branch.

The proposal to make it possible for the president to reorganize the functions of government, although an 18-day period for congressional veto, was clear to the hearts of Mr. Truman. He expected to be supported by the house, for it was stated at Key West on Monday that the president was satisfied with the prospects for this piece of legislation which was among the things he discussed with Democratic leaders in congress over the telephone.—Houston Chronicle.

O'DWYER PREDICAMENT

William O'Dwyer is the ambassador from the United States to Mexico, a position of honor and trust that should be held only by a gentleman of high caliber.

The post is one that Mr. O'Dwyer enjoys and in which he would prefer to remain. Although Mr. O'Dwyer is now training as a police officer, a successful politician and a New York City politician, he is not a gentleman. He is disqualified from holding it by the mere charge that he has led under oath, that he has accepted money which he has denied receiving, or failed to render it in income tax.

So the ambassador's disqualification to resign under fire is natural and human. But Mr. O'Dwyer's resignation is also that of his country. If the allegations are true, the disqualification is clear. Indeed it would be a disgrace to ask a neighbor nation for one moment to continue to entertain a representative who does not measure up to the highest standards of integrity.

The important thing in Mr. O'Dwyer's case is, then, to move to establish

PUNY WOOD ON LEGISLATION AT AUSTIN

Texas house and senate legislating Monday became an accomplished fact for the first time in thirty years. Governor Allan Shivers' approval into law the two redrafting bills which were legislative approval almost two weeks ago. They will apply in the 1952 primary and elections. This bill combined Walker and Houston counties in the representative district. This leaves two major redrafting bills to be passed: The Judicial and Congressional redrafting bills.

There is one Congressional redrafting bill before the house, and two substitutes. The original bill is House Bill No. 287 by Rep. Chambers. It includes the following counties in our congressional district: Houston, Henderson, Anderson, Cherokee, Nacogdoches, Angelina, Polk, Trinity, San Jacinto, Montgomery, Walker, Madison, Grimes, and Brazos. The first substitute bill, by Wilson, includes these counties: Houston, Cherokee, Nacogdoches, Shelby, Angelina, San Augustine, Sabine, Madison, Trinity, Polk, Taylor, Brazos, Grimes, Walker, Montgomery and San Jacinto. The second substitute bill, by Sadler, includes these counties: Houston, Hill, Navarro, Henderson, Limestone, Freestone, Anderson, Leon, Hardin, Madison, Walker, Trinity, Angelina, San Jacinto and Polk. All three bills have one thing in common: they all include Houston county, which causes it to be of interest to all of us. I would like to know what you think about these bills.

Death-trap cars, with faulty brakes, lights, horns or steering mechanisms, were ordered off the highways by a bill the house approved Monday. It calls for the compulsory motor inspection annually under the supervision of the State Department of Public Safety. Inspection for would-be $1 for each car. A car owner couldn't register his car and get license plates until he had a certificate showing that his car had been inspected for safety, and was okay. The bill now goes to the senate.

The house spent the last two days of this week's session debating appropriation bills. The house budget calls for $159,100,000 for the next two years, while the senate version calls for an outlay of $164,500,000. The final enactment will probably be a split between the two bills. If the legislature passes the budget bills recommended by the house appropriations and senate finance committees, it must raise in new taxes approximately 100 million dollars. The house has given every indication that it would enact tax laws to raise the necessary funds to balance the budget, and put the state's finances in good order. Tax legislation of every name and description has been introduced. Your guess is as good as mine as to what type of new taxes will be levied; however, we can be sure that there will be no state sales or income tax.

A fourth plan to finance rural roads, this one looking on $7,500,000 a year to cities and towns and an equal bond to the schools, has been offered in the house by Rep. Jim Sewell of Navarro county, joined by five other house members. This plan would levy a one-cent per 1000 feet tax on natural gas, creating a fund of approximately $10 million a year. Half would replace the present direct general revenue appropriations for farm-to-market roads, leaving the counties free to receive their present one-half of the additional $10 million from the road bond fund. The fourth the revenues from the Sewell gas tax would go to the school fund.

INTERSTATE TRANSPORTATION OF STOLEN MOTOR VEHICLE

DESCRIPTION
Age 33; born July 13, 1917, Owen, Ky.; height, 5 feet; weight, 152 pounds; build, slender; posture, stooped; eyes, brown; may wear glasses; hair, dark brown, straight; complexion, medium light; nose, long, prominent in profile; race, white; nationality, American; occupation, automobile salesman; used car dealer, walters, remarks, may wear mustache, reportedly carries valid identification papers of numerous persons, and to be one of the most cunning and active car thieves presently at large, may be traveling with female companion.

CAUTION
Shelton is armed and dangerous.

Complaints were filed before U. S. Commissioners at New Orleans, La., and Atlanta, Ga., on November 24, 1950, and January 16, 1951, respectively, charging Shelton with interstate transportation of stolen motor vehicles.

Mr. Finney disclosed that he was born some 35 years ago.

Born in Midway, Texas, in 1855, Mr. Finney took up fiddle playing about the same time he hauled his first load of cotton from Madisonville to Houston in an old tarbucket wagon. That would have been about 1887, he recalls.

In between hauls, Mr. Finney's fame as a fiddle player grew. His steady, blue eyes twinkle at recollection of some of the square dances which lasted long past sundown in the older days.

Mr. Finney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hennessy Finney, came to Texas in 1822 from Tennessee. A master mechanic, the older Finney built the first store building in Huntsville, according to family records.

John Austin Finney likes to recall, too, the yonder years when his cronies in the Madisonville string band included such worthies as T. M. Kellett and F. A. Lively, playing fiddle also, and Will Black and Grover Morgan playing guitar.

WRONG MAN IN CHAIR.

There are times when action in the [hou se-af-representatives-indicates-that+] [uncertain] the wrong man is sitting in the speak- [ers] [uncertain] chair. Tuesday was one such oc- [casione,] [uncertain] when this branch of congress voted down the legislation which would have given President Truman emergency powers to reorganize gov.

[ernment] [uncertain] departments.

The Democratic leadership was able to hold only 161 votes for this administration measure. A total of 60

Democrats failed to follow Sam Rayburns leadership for one reason or another,

Tt would be different if the experi- [ence] [uncertain] were a new one for Mr. Rayburn, but it has happened many times now. The 161 votes which the speaker was able to muster when the chips were down Tuesday appear to be about all that he [cah] [uncertain] count on through thick and thin. The remaining Democrats of the 233 total membership refuse to follow his leadership or that of Representative John McCormack when President Truman calls for action contrary to the concepts of Jeffersonian democracy or demands an increase in the already broad [powtrs] [uncertain] of the executive at the expense of the legislative branch.

The proposal to make it possible for the president to reorganize the functions of government, allowing only an Lk-day period for congressional veto, was dear to the [hearbeof.] [uncertain] Mr. Truman, He expected to be supported by the house, for It was stated at

Koy West on Monday that the pres- [ident] [uncertain] wan satisfied with the prospects for this [pleco] [uncertain] of legislation which was among others that he discussed with [Democratic] [uncertain] leaders in congress over the [telephone.—Houston] [uncertain] Chronicle,
