LOVELADY HONORS
BOYS AND GIRLS IN ATHLETICS

The citizens of Lovelady turned out in goodly numbers Tuesday night, April 10, to pay honor to the boys' football and basketball and girls' basketball squads of Lovelady High School at a banquet in the gymnasium. After an invocation by Rev. A. B. Moses, a delectable meal was served.

Marion Mason, county school superintendent, served as master of ceremonies, and from reports from all parts of Texas a record attendance of business leaders is expected for the convention program.

Coch W. W. Whitley presented the seven letter men of the Lovelady football team. Billy Douglas, Ray Stewart, Billy Ray Stewart, L. I. Speyer, Billy Charles Little, Billy Gill, Marlin Land, Nuel Allee, Eddie Hise, Ben Keels, Richard Keels, Harold Goodwin, Knoch Brixson, Monte Jack Driskell, Hughey Pritchett, Benny Frank Clark, Hershel Hixons, Eugene Butler and Thomas Mather.

Mrs. Estie Monzingo presented eight letter winners of her girls' basketball team: Bobbie Hise, Beita Michael, Ruth Morris, Jo Ann Keels, Patsy Butler, Ruby E. Jones, Wanda McMann and Verna J. Rollo.

The athletes were then presented their awards by Superintendent P. W. Wilson. After the banquet program, Coach Wilson showed motion pictures of the annual football game between Lovelady and the University of Texas at Austin. This film was particularly well received, since J. W. (Dub) Allee, former Lovelady High star, was outstanding in defense for Sam Houston in this contest.

The hostesses served delicious cookies and cold drinks. Mesdames Mims, Faye, C. N. Goolsby, W. F. Charell, chairman of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, and local chamber managers served by the regional chamber, will meet at breakfast as guests of the Junior Cadman Club who took part in the chamber's annual picnic at the Longview Hotel, Longview, Texas, April 7. W. H. Collins, cooperator whose farm is located six miles southeast from Crockett, has been doing quite a bit of pasture improvement. He has a good stand of Singletary peas on his land, and the peas are looking good and are responding rapidly to the recent showings. Mr. Collins is planting 30 sacks of peas on his land this spring. He plans on using about 30 sacks for feed and 30 sacks on pasture improvement.

Mr. Collins pointed out that the greatest demand for Farm Development credit in Houston county is to pay initial cost of adopting soil and water conservation practices; provide basic soil treatments, such as rock phosphate and lime, construct or make improvements on house, barn, sheds or other structures affecting farm's efficiency; and clear land by removing trees, stumps, brush.

In developing their farms, Mr. Collins explained, however, are encouraged to do as much of their own work as possible and to use native materials whenever they can. He said the Farmers' Home administration operates in its Farm Development program with other agencies, including the State College of Agriculture, extension service, soil conservation service and forest service.

"We can include funds in these development loans," he added, "to refund indebtedness the farmer may have against his farm." All applications go before the Houston County F.H.A. committee, headed by Hill Huff of Grapeland. Other committee members are T. Elwood Dawson of Crockett and Lee E. Perry of Lovelady.

This committee is responsible for deciding whether a farmer is eligible for a loan and whether his farm can be developed into an efficient family-type farm-management unit within the legal investment limit of $12,000 for Houston county.

Among local families who have obtained Farm Development loans are the Nathan Shroyers, who live near Porter Springs. The Shroyer farm was badly in need of some basic soil treatment, such as phosphate and lime. Fencing for controlled grazing was needed. The Shroyers, through application of these needed land improvements, have developed a successful dairy farm.

The Farmers' Home administration also makes and insures loans to buy farms and to enlarge farms that are too small to be efficient, Mr. Collins said. In the past several years 36 Houston county families have bought farms through this program.

With X Corps in Korea.—Cpl. Lonnie A. Smith of Kennard is now serving in the "toughest engineers' war in history" with Able company of the 18th Engineer Combat Battalion on the central Korean front.

Not only must the engineers battle "almost impossible mountainous terrain and the enemy, but the weather makes a third rugged foe," Corporal Smith commented. "The landing field we built near the Yalu is a good example. We virtually had to hack the strip out of frozen ground in a 40-mile-per-hour wind with the temperature standing at 25 degrees below zero. And now, as soon as the weather turns warmer, here comes the rainy season."

The 18th has sided with X Corps troops on both sides of the Korean peninsula, building and maintaining roads and bridges. The engineers often have substituted the weapons of war for the weapons of work to fight off the attacking enemy force.

Corporal Smith, Able company mechanic, has served in the Korean war since landing with X Corps fighting forces during the initial liberation of Incheon and Seoul last September. He also participated in the dramatic evacuation of the embattled Hungnam perimeter, when corps troops were withdrawn to establish a new front on the Korean warline.

CONGRESS ACTS ON TRUMANS BOLD. DARE YOU [10" Washiiyton, D] [uncertain]

March 30, 1951. Editor Courier: The president rent his budget men- [Rage-to] [uncertain] congress in Juriuary, request-Ling funds to run all government dee parting [nis] [uncertain] next year. A few days later, in response to some criticism of the budget, he dared" congress to cut it,
The sub-committee on [appropr] [uncertain] nations, Which handled the treas- [ury] [uncertain] and post office bill, did cut those:

two departments by 36% million under what" the" president recommended.

When the bill got to the floor of the house a very strong effort was made to reduce the amount again: We met With [sume] [uncertain] success, taking out nearly j $3. million [hiore] [uncertain] by amendments [addpted onthe] [uncertain] floor. A tentative cut" of $22. million from" the postal Operations fund was reversed on a roll cali by a margin of two votes. The early departure-from [Washing:] [uncertain] ton of a good many members who live close enough to go home, for Easter, ts believed to be the major cause of the failure to pass the amendment that would have decreased the bill by that sum.

In rough figures, the estimated [def: icit.] [uncertain] fur post office operations in a years time ix about [$500:] [uncertain] million. Aj large part of that sum of money [is.:] [uncertain] accounted for by the fact that all types of mail except first. [tlass] [uncertain] do not bring" enough revenue to [puy] [uncertain] the: [cATYYING] [uncertain] charges. Another large item is the approximate" $50. million for [wir] [uncertain] email subsidy. [At"] [uncertain] the present time, legislation is under considera- lion to separate the air mail subsidy from the actual cost of carrying mail.
