[UNY] [uncertain] WOOD [ON] [uncertain] LEGISLATION

The house, Tuesday, passed its first tax billow this [session—a"] [uncertain] natural gas tax bill designed to provide "funds for rural" roads: [bysavoteof] [uncertain] 87-52. Its sponsor, Rep. [Sewell,] [uncertain] said it, would bring in total "revenue of around thirty million dollars, fifteen of which is earmarked for rural roads: [The] [uncertain] re-raining" half is equally distributed between the public school fund and cities" and "municipalities used to pave streets [(which] [uncertain] would amount [toaround'7] [uncertain] million). It is my opinion that grants-in-aid" to cities, is a bad precedent for, the state government to set, and [Iam.] [uncertain] very much opposed to it offered, an amendment to the bill [totake] [uncertain] the 7 million that is going to the cities under the bill and put it [inthe"] [uncertain] general revenue fund, which many: [estimatesay] [uncertain] may have 50 to 100 million dollar deficit: [The] [uncertain] Texas Highway department is already spending many. [millions.of] [uncertain] dollars on city streets. [nowstand withthe] [uncertain] state in need of additional revenue, I just can't see it. I'm going to ask my senator to vote against it. What about you? Rep. Sewell also pointed out that more than half of the taxes collected under this gas tax bill would be paid by out-of-state concerns. That should appeal to most Texans. There--was a time when raising the natural gas tax would have only meant an increased tax burden on the people of Texas, but now that [isnt] [uncertain] the case.

During the last few years, the building of big, high. [préessuré] [uncertain] pipelines to other States [(now.) [uncertain] totaling more than thirty in addition to Mexico) has enormously increased the percentage of the Texas production that is exported. More than half of the gas sold to pipelines is exported and all prospects point to a constant [increase] [uncertain] in the future. This gas is going to the big industries up North from which we [dont] [uncertain] collect a cent of taxes.

it's about time we arose from our sleep and did something about this terrific drain on our principal natural resource, without compensation. The least we can do is collect a tax on re- sources leaving the state and that is one good reason why this bill is a step in the right direction.

It looks as if rural roads are doing fine this session. The Sewell bill just mentioned gives approximately 15,-00,000 to rural roads, and there is already an appropriation in the gen- [eral] [uncertain] appropriations of $15,000,000 for rural roads making a total of $30,- 000,000 for farm-to-market roads, The big city representatives are going to do all that they can to prevent this.
