ANOTHER THREAT.

The president's threat to "get on a train again and make another tour around the country to tell the people how their government is getting on" comes a little earlier than we expected, but we were certain it would come in due course. "The same old-fashioned reactionaries who want to cripple labor unions have also started a campaign of confusion against all our other measures for the welfare of the people," he declared. He blames the "special interests." But the "reactionaries" he means are the Republicans, and the southern Democrats. Like another Cato, he declared that the Taft-Hartley law must be destroyed. "The Taft-Hartley act," he said, "is an insult to the working men and women of this country and they will not rest until it is destroyed. After the election, I thought we would have the cooperation of our Republican friends in this effort. I felt sure that the Republican party would be anxious to throw the Taft-Hartley act overboard faster than the sailors got rid of Jonah. I am beginning to think that maybe I was wrong about that."

Girls Forget Fears, Thanks To 2-Way Help

What to do for women's oldest problem, functional monthly pain? Many a girl and woman has found the answer in Glaxo's 2-Way Help. If you, cannot make things feel better for you in either of two ways: (1) started 3 days before "your time" and taken as directed; and (2) should help relieve functional periodic pain; (3) taken throughout the month like a tonic; (4) should improve your appetite, aid digestion, and thus help build up resistance for the trying days to come. Glaxo is scientifically prepared and scientifically tested. If you suffer "all those cramps times," get Glaxo today.

and 97 of those 106 Democratic votes were from the thirteen southern states, only twelve Democratic members from those states voting to sustain Mr. Truman's veto. Most of those 97 southern Democrats were rejected to the present house. Having received the approval of their constituents, why should these southern Democrats regard the Taft-Hartley law as a Jonah? Does Mr. Truman propose to go into the districts of these southern Democrats and undertake to tell their people that they should threaten these representatives with punishment at the polls next year unless they do an about-face on this measure? The southern people approved the votes of their representatives for the Taft-Hartley law. Does Mr. Truman expect southern people to repudiate their own vote of approval?—Southern Weekly.

HE'S TAKING THE Chill OFF A THOUSAND HOMES

It's 6:00 A.M. ... temperature 48 degrees ... and far out in a gas field, a United Gas well attendant opens a flow valve to move an additional million cubic feet of natural gas through our pipe lines. Its destination is a big electric power plant ... a paper mill ... a great city where home heating equipment is going into action to take off the morning chill. United Gas dispatchers are constantly instructing well attendants to increase or decrease the volume of gas moving into our vast, integrated pipe line system. Dispatching is a 24-hour-a-day job, but is only one of many functions of the United Gas organization ... all of which have the ultimate purpose of assuring a continued dependable supply of natural gas to our customers.

SENATORIAL WITS ASK WHY PRESIDENT IS LIKE MARCH

Washington, March 16.—A swiftly spreading March 1 witicism at the capitol reflects the confidence of southern senators as they start another historic senate struggle with a president of the United States.

"Why is President Truman like March?" they are asking. "Because he came in like a lion and will go out like a lamb?"

The president, who got the last laugh on one congress, may well put the final touches to his exercise in senatorial humor; nevertheless, his honeymoon with congress is decidedly ended before-legislatively speaking—it ever really got started.

In fact, all over town administration honeymooners are ending and none faster than that of the secretary of labor, Mr. Robert C. Marshall. Secretary Marshall is the eloquent campaign orator so warmly praised by the president for his contribution to the great victory. His department, emasculated by the Eighteenth congress, would be strengthened, he was promised as a part of the administration's pre-labor drive for Taft-Hartley repeal, improvements in the wage-hour law, etc.

Prolonged hearings have demonstrated the confusion in the Taft-Hartley repeal fight. Committees are about to report on wage-hour amendments with no real certainty about the outcome. And the secretary's efforts to reclaim for his department various administration functions, which the Republicans regulated away from it, have not met with sustained and effective opposition from the president's own supporters.

Now Mr. Marshall has made his own contribution to his reputation by his choice of Michael Joseph Galvin, a Boston lawyer, as his undersecretary. After one long, hard look at Mr. Galvin, labor has begun to growl.

They say they do not know Mr. Galvin and were not consulted about his appointment. The Galvin official biography describes him as a member of "one of the three largest law firms in New England engaged in business and labor law." Labor understands—correctly, it is said—that the firm's practice includes about 60% representation of employers.

RICH AND POOR ARE RICHER, BUT MIDDLEMAN LOSES

Chicago, March 6.—Consumers changed their spending and saving habits last year after four years in the same groove.

Maybe you had not noticed, but Margaret Reid, University of Illinois economist, did in looking over a survey of consumer finances sponsored by the Federal Reserve Board.

She also found the rich and poor are richer while the in-betweeners have relatively less wealth than before the war. Furthermore, she says, in recent years the rich are saving more for year. But while the poor have relatively more money wealth, they are cutting deeper into their savings.

The middle groups are just about holding their own in the percentage of not savings.

"For the first time since 1944," the economist notes in the University's business review, "the percentage of income spent last year declined as compared with the preceding year, and the percentage saved rose correspondingly."

This may signal the end of the special postwar spending boom, she says, but she finds that expenditures are not far from what might be expected on the basis of prewar experience."

Professor Reid describes what has been happening in this way:

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh.

Never Too Late To Learn

That's why things go so well at the Miller farm. Cappy is open-minded, tolerant of new ideas and new ways of doing. It doesn't think his way is the only way.

From where I sit, a little tolerance will make things go better for all of us. You respect your views and I'll respect yours—whether it's on farming, politics, or choosing between an ice cream soda or a temperate glass of beer.
