DEM SOLON SAYS HE IS OPPOSED TO TAX INCREASE

Washington, December 4.—Forecasting excellent business conditions in 1950, Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, said Sunday that any tax increase not only would be a mistake but "a practical impossibility."

The Wyoming senator, who heads the senate-house economic committee, said he thinks the government can get more revenue by revising the tax system to give new incentives to business than by raising rates.

President Truman has said he sees no other way to balance the budget except to raise taxes. However, Mr. Truman has not made clear the type of tax program he will submit in his January message to congress.

Mr. O'Mahoney said the Wyoming senator declared: "I think the need for additional revenue can be met from conscious and intelligent effort to promote our own resources and to create business."

"Our tax system is badly in need of reform. It should be revised to provide incentives for business expansion which will produce new revenue for the government."

Dem From Bureau.

Hollywood, Calif., December 1.—Russian-born Maria Ouspenskaya, 53, a leading stage and screen actress for more than thirty years, died Saturday in the Motion Picture Relief House of burns suffered when her house caught fire.

She was seriously burned Wednesday night when the fire broke out in her home.

A friend staying with her dragged her from the flaming bed. Director of the relief house said she was in extreme pain from the second- and third-degree burns which covered her body. She also was in a state of severe shock.

RURAL ROADS TO RAILROADS.

Few people have as great a stake in the continuous successful operation of railroads as those who own and operate the millions of trucks and private autos in this country.

America could not have built, and could not maintain and operate, its motor vehicles were it not for the low-cost mass transportation of raw materials and finished products which only the railroads can provide.

Continued Support.

Washington, November 12.—The government's war time freight support program.

The Agriculture Department announced it will make price support loans through December 31 on warehouse-stored cottonseed from the 1949 crop to individual producers of co-operative associations. Until now the loans have been available only for farm-stored cottonseed.

Warehouse loans will be made at the same base rate of $48.50 per ton by the Commodity Credit Corporation. The loans will mature late last year next April 30. Production and marketing administration commodity offices will be responsible for approving and entering into contracts with warehouses, the announcement said.

Cottonseed in warehouses will be covered by the receipts issued by warehousemen, including co-operative and private oil mills, who have entered into storage contracts with the government.

Free of Charge.

The railroads have carried the government's war time freight free of charge if reparations claimed by the department of justice are awarded. Walter R. Scott of Kansas City, Missouri, transportation commissioner of the board of trade of Kansas City, said during his testimony before the Interstate Commerce Commission in government reparations suits against the railroads. Mr. Scott said that 27 other shippers, industrial and agricultural organizations that have intervened in behalf of the railroads in these suits.

AGAINST FALLING LIVESTOCK PRICES

As a protection against falling livestock prices, farmers can take a few simple steps now, on their own farms, that will help protect their profits for 1950.

This suggestion, issued by the American Foundation for Animal Health, said that the multimillion dollar tax extracted by animal diseases and parasites far exceeds what farmers are likely to lose due to market declines.

Pointing out a few examples, the foundation said that the cost of treating a single cow for brucellosis is $100,000,000 a year. The annual loss from brucellosis in cattle is responsible for losses of another $100,000,000 annually, while the cost of brucellosis in swine and goats accounts for many millions more.

"The annual loss from grub and shipping bruises alone has been set at $100,000,000 by livestock health authorities."

"With stakes running this high, it is more apparent now than ever before that farmers are taking far greater losses from disease and parasites than they are likely to take from market declines."

To cut down disease losses in the coming year the foundation stressed: 1—better farm sanitation; 2—early examination of all animals by a veterinarian; 3—proper vaccination of susceptible animals when vaccination is required; 4—more prompt reporting of disease outbreaks; 5—increased "disease awareness" by livestock owners.
