One of the great changes in the structure of American agriculture in recent [years—a] [uncertain] change of deep octal and economic significance to the nation at [larce] [uncertain] as well ap to [agriculture iteclff—is] [uncertain] the increase In farm ownership and the big decline in tenant [farraing.] [uncertain] u Figures compiled by the Burrau of Agricultural Economica of the U. 8. Department of Agriculture [diacluec] [uncertain] that approximately 72 per cent, oF more n.seven out of every ten, if all farm operators the [ycar] [uncertain] were [ofa. ers.] [uncertain] in full or in part, [(Part] [uncertain] owners operate land they rent Ip addition to their own.) in farm ownership proportion is the [tighert] [uncertain] since such figures were first compiled in 1900 and compares with a ratio of [wel]) [uncertain] under per cent in the Ma. The peak in farm tenancy was established an 1936 when [appros)mately] [uncertain] 2.9 trillion [farme,] [uncertain] or 42 per cent of all farm, were tenant-operated. In the following decade the rum: [ber] [uncertain] of tenant farmers declined more than million and their proportion of all farm operators fell to 32 per cent. A [sainple] [uncertain] survey of 11,00 farms conducted by the Department a of Agriculture earls this year [indcated] [uncertain] that the proportion of tenancy at that time had declined further to around 27 per cent.
