Wax From Candles Calls for Caution

With so many candles placed about the home to give a festive air during the holiday season, the wax dripping on rugs, tablecloths, and mantels are almost inevitable.

Wax spots on rugs can usually be removed successfully by first vacuuming off as much wax as possible with a dull knife and then spreading with carbon tetrachloride.

When you scrape up the wax, be careful not to scrape the rug. If the candle was colored and a stain remains, try spraying it with water and one part of alcohol (rubbing alcohol).

As a precaution against future wax stains, it is suggested that you use a wax melt, after you've used carbon tetrachloride. Again you are urged to test an inconspicuous spot for possible fading from use of the solution.

Mrs. Vernon Garner, who has been under special treatment in a Houston hospital for a broken hip, suffered recently in a fall, is expected to be able to return home Friday, her friends will be pleased to learn.

Mrs. Maudie Hall, a former employee of the Crockett Courier, now teaching in Puerto Rico, writes that she will be home December 23 to spend Christmas with relatives and friends.

When the end draws near you will wish that you had a lot of the time that you have wasted.

We would like to give this greeting in the most impressive way possible because we feel you are so deserving, and yet, what is more impressive or more sincere than the old fashioned "Merry Christmas" and "Happy New Year," and we truly mean it to each of you, from—

EDD BULLER

WINKLING, multi-colored Christmas trees with gleaming decorations, sparkling eyes, radiant faces and bright, warm greetings... all these are a part of the special Yuletide glow that fills our hearts with good will toward men. And that's the kind of holiday I... Reddy Kilowatt, your dependable electric servant... am wish for you and yours. Of course, I'm speaking for all the folks at the Texas Power & Light Company, so again... "Merry Christmas, Happy New Year!"

Many Houston county and Crockett people are now living in Houston, and the Courier has numerous friends among them. One, in particular, sends the Courier the following message, and it makes us want to adopt this message as our own, for our own use in giving expression to our feelings at this season of best wishes. Of the messages of the season's good cheer received, we have picked the following, received Sunday, as typical:

It's the same old "Merry Christmas." Nothing different, nothing new. But it's filled with special feeling just because it's meant for you, and it's warm with happy memories, filled with merriment and holly. I'm wishing you everything it takes to make your Christmas jolly. Our Houston friend, whose name is signed, will please accept our thanks for "them kind words."

Friend (to policeman, who had formerly been a salesman): How do you like the new job?

Policeman: Well, the pay is good, the hours O. K., and the customer is always wrong.

O Come Let Us Adore Him

CHRISTMAS EVE IN OLDTIME
FINLAND

The Christmas Eve bath was quite a tradition in Finland before the advent of modern plumbing. The oldtime Finnish bath-room was usually a three-room hut; one room was used for steaming and scrubbing, one for rubbing, and one for dressing.

The bath was warmed by a stone even, heated for hours before the scheduled bath, and the "bath-room" was really steaming. After bathing came the rub-down and the switching of the body with birch twigs to increase the circulation, topped off by a roll in the snow, supposedly to whet the appetite for Christmas Eve supper. For supper there was usually stockfish and prune tarts to be enjoyed, plus the traditional barley porridge in which cream and sugar and almonds were mixed. After supper the boys and men girls—garbed in the men's work clothes—blackened their faces and stole away to visit other homes in cognate and "see Christmas." The girls never spoke nor accepted food, but went from house to house merely to watch the festivities. And when the evening's festivities were over, the smaller children made their beds in the clean straw spread on the floor in commemoration of the Christ Child.

The flame-thrower and atomic energy — lethal instruments borrowed from modern warfare — are out to kill that ancient symbol of peace-making and love, the Christmas mistletoe.

The unusual battle front is Australia, where too many valuable trees each year have been receiving the kiss of death from the harmless-looking shrub. Despite mistletoe's popular reputation as the Yuletide promoter of romance, it is a public-enemy parasite in the woodlands, killing off the trees that play it host.

Australian foresters have finally resorted to the flame-thrower as a quick executioner for the plant and are using radio-active tracers, furnished by the U. S. atomic energy commission, to study how the mistletoe saps the water and mineral salts from the trees, starving them to death.

LOVELADY READING CLUB CHRISTMAS SOCIAL

The annual Christmas social and book review sponsored by the Lovelady Reading Club was held December 16 at 7:30 p. m. from the Methodist church.

The Yuletide theme was beautifully expressed in the decorations of the church where the review took place, and in the educational building where the reception was held at the close of the program.

Mrs. Miller Stewart of Houston, who favored the club last season with a review of the book "Merry," by Schlem Apple, again held her audience spellbound with a timely story of the Julekiss, from the book entitled "The Bold Galleon."

Her portrayal of each Biblical character was so vivid and like life, the listener was made to feel that somewhere, he too, had really known them. The president, Mrs. Collins, said in her introductory remarks that she felt that Mrs. Stewart really needed an introduction, but she wished to voice the sentiments of the group, in saying "How happy everyone was to have both Mr. and Mrs. Stewart present."

Following the book review, past president, Mrs. Bruton, gave a brief response, along with the invitation to attend the reception in the recreation room.

The refreshment table was lovely with a central arrangement of Christmas greens, garlanded around a miniature yule log, which held red candles. A tea service stood at one end of the table, and a coffee service completed the appointments at the other end.

Mrs. Collins served tea and Mrs. Bruton poured the coffee. Assisting Mrs. Ward in serving the sandwiches, cookies and nuts, were Mrs. B. J. Goodwin, Mrs. E. J. Goodwin, Mrs. L. H. Mumfords, Mrs. Nan Russell and other members of the club.
