TUESDAY IS DAY FOR GENERAL ELECTION

Tuesday is general election day. On that day officials from congress to constable will be elected. The Republican state slate is fairly complete and the Republican party has an opposition slate to the Democratic nominees in Houston county for the first time in many years.

Nomination of Republican candidates in this county is the result of development of a two-party system of government in Texas, according to proponents of the Republican ticket.

This is not a presidential election year, but the presence of two tickets may result in a large turnout of voters here.

Man comes out of the fire in the southern forests, but man's relation to the forest fire problem is not simple.
