TAXPAYERS BEGIN WAR ON BIG SPENDING

Austin, Texas, April 27. Taxpayers began organizing Thursday a battle against big spending in state government.

Unless the trend is stopped, the state must levy a general sales tax or state income tax, the Texas Economy Commission's steering committee warns.

That warning came from Robert W. Caldwell, Hillbush, former state legislator.

"Unless the trend is reversed," added Paul Carrington of Dallas, "the history of the Federal Government in the last fifteen years will be the history of the State Government in the next fifteen years."

"We've headed for trouble financially, unless some drastic action is taken to curb the state's spending," Caldwell said.

John R. Reddick of Dallas, temporary chairman, will name four committees to set the economy hall rolling.

These will deal with organization, mobilization, financing and arranging for a meeting of the 660-member state commission. Reddick expects to announce committee in a few days, and call the first commission session later.

Secretary of State John Ben Shepard suggested forming a non-profit corporation, which would receive free donations. A first-year budget of $75,000 was proposed, to be raised privately. The money would be spent largely for staff salaries.

"I don't think you can complete the job by the next legislative session (starting next January)," Shepard said. "A lot of progress can be made if you save five million dollars a year of state money—1 per cent of our spending—and help improve efficiency, you will have done a wonderful job."

Several committees asked Shivers' view that most state services were as desirable and necessary. Reddick noted that education, roads, welfare and hospitals took 60 per cent of every state dollar.

"But we've opened the valve on spending in Texas," he added. "Many agencies want money, but none want economy. We have one of the few solvent governments in the world. It looks like we've headed for a tremendous state deficit next year. A recession could cause a very serious situation."

Public thinking must be directed toward economy, said J. S. Bracwell of Houston.

Labor Leader William J. Harris of Dallas agreed "we can't have our cake and eat it too."

"Right now," he said, "Dallas wants that 15-million dollar expressway, regardless of what Houston and the others get."

[HOBBY] [uncertain] CITES [WEAKNESS] [uncertain] US. [GOVERNMENT] [uncertain] New York, April 2 [26.—Oveta] [uncertain] Culp

Hobby of the Houston Post told American newspaper publishers Wednesday that the home complexity" of our government has resulted in an [overplanned] [uncertain] economy, an [overgoverned] [uncertain] nation and an overspent budget."

The wartime W. A. C commander said that chaos and overlapping functions and waste" in the government have grown infinitely worse and are partly responsible for the fact that" the richest country in [theworld] [uncertain] is overspending its income by $5,000,000,000 a year." [4] [uncertain]

Speaking before a general meeting of the convention of tNe American Newspaper Publishers Association, Mrs. Hobby said that-no reforms can [9c] [uncertain] achieved unless public interest is not only aroused, but sustained."

Recalling the Biblical story of the veils of Jericho being tumbled by lasts from trumpets, Mrs. Hobby aid:
