PLAIN HONESTY. NEEDED IN GOVERNMENT

Thurman Sensing in Dallas News.

Too many people see no relationship between our economy and [thel_] [uncertain] abstract moral virtues of truth, honesty and justice. They could be- [no}] [uncertain] more wrong. There is such a [thing] [uncertain] as [economy] [uncertain] righteousness, and the wages of sin in this field are just as- certain as the- wages of sin [inany] [uncertain] other field of morality.

There is a desperate need for a revival of economic righteousness, in the world [today—both] [uncertain] in individuals and in nations. The morals of a nation are no better than those of the men who compose it. There was a-time-when treaties between nations were not just scraps of paper;" they tan never be considered [seraps] [uncertain] of paper and expect the citizens of a nation so considering them to be trustworthy people. There was a time when a mans

The educational section of the G. I. Bill of [Rights] [uncertain] was adopted for the [purpono] [uncertain] of qualifying men who had served their country for the postwar world. It was supposed also to make veterans of greater [uso] [uncertain] to the national economy and [proventtheir deterloration] [uncertain] during the period of ad- [Juatment] [uncertain] from) armed service to peacetime pursuits. Men with [suf. ficient] [uncertain] service could get a complete college education at [virtua] [uncertain] at no cost to themselves. The government paid a fixed amount for tuition and for subsistence.

Many veterans have run their privilege under the G. I. bill out to the full merely as a means of existence. The total cost for this provision alone has amounted to more than $8,000,000,000. In a little over a year the "grave train" will slow down its operations. After July, 1961, the Government estimates that
