The Dill was debated at length and was passed unanimously. [There.] [uncertain] fore, former enlisted men in the various branches of the armed services, who are eligible to receive terminal leave [pny] [uncertain] and have not heretofore filed their applications, will be granted an extension of time if the senate agrees to the house bill and it finally becomes a law.

On Friday, January 27, the house took up for consideration House Joint Resolution 398 relating to cotton and peanut acreage allotments and marketing quotas for 1960. The bill is designed to make adjustments in the acreage allotments for those crops to relieve serious inequities that are evident under existing law. General debate only took place during the course of the day and will" be resumed on Monday, January 30. [Following the" closs~6f thé] [uncertain] general debate, the bill will be open fog amendments. It is presently anticipated that final action will be taken by..the, house by the time adjournment takes place Monda [night—If-action] [uncertain] ts not concluded on Monday, it will be completed on Tuesday, the [31st.] [uncertain] There is some opposition to the bill, but we do not anticipate it will be so great as to prevent its passage. While the pending proposal likely will not correct all of the inequities in the present law, it will be of some help if the senate will act promptly when it reaches that body after passing the house. TIMBER TIPS FROM [FORESTER] [uncertain] AGENT

One hundred and eleven people turned out for the hardwood eradication demonstration held in Angelina county recently, making it more successful, I think, than [gny] [uncertain] of us had hoped. It was an interested crowd, and one which had no qualms about participating wholeheartedly in the demonstration by asking some good questions and by passing on information gained from individual personal experiences in using various weed and tree killers.

Originally, Chester Davis, the county" agent in Angelina county, and myself-immt planned to have only Don Munger, representative of the Du Pont Company in this area, demonstrate [Ammate—the] [uncertain] weed and tree killer so often mentioned in this column in connection with eradicating hardwood weed-tree species. [How.] [uncertain] ever, quite a number of questions on the [various] [uncertain] fine points" in planting pine seedlings had arisen during the past couple of [nionths,] [uncertain] so we also asked Dick Townsend, district
