Little Boy Badly Bitten By Dog. Billy Frank Larrison, three or four years old, was badly bitten by a dog Tuesday night in northeast Crockett.

The dog was said to belong to a Mr. Little, living in the same vicinity in which the boy lived. The boy was so badly bitten about the face that he had to be taken to a hospital, where his wounds required a number of stitches and other treatment, according to report.

It was said that the little boy, attracted by the dog, attempted to pet him, with the result as stated.

Where Timber Is A Crop. Timber and the other products of the forest are important to the economy of many states, and particularly to Louisiana.

More than one-third of the industrial workers of the state are employed by the mills and factories whose raw materials come from the forest lands.

More than half of Louisiana's 30,000,000 acres of land area is covered by trees.

The need for intelligent conservation of these lands through reforestation, woodland management and fire protection is readily apparent.

Many of the holders of large forest tracts, including several of the large lumber companies, already are practicing woodland management and some of them are employing their own foresters.

Everything on the inside of the building was destroyed and only an outside shell remained. Firemen fought the flames for two or three hours, and thus prevented its spreading to other buildings.

Mr. Bynum said that 40 exemptions had been issued up to Monday, to "unders." Persons who became 21 after January 1, 1949, may vote without paying a poll tax, but they must obtain an exemption certificate.
