A GRASS-ROOTS, COUNTRY.

The government of this nation is dominated by the small towns and the rural [areas—not] [uncertain] by the great city populations, That striking facet is developed in an analysis of the United States congress published in the December issue of the Alnerican Press.

The [annlysi,] [uncertain] shows that 76

[representitives]] [uncertain]
[represent—more_rural_counties]
[uncertain] than urban" [counti@s,] [uncertain] For the purpose [of]!
[uncertain] the study, a rural county was,
[con-| sidered] [uncertain] to be one in which there is no community with more than 10,000 population.

The small number of senators who represent predominately urban [con-| stituencies] [uncertain] mostly come from [states]] [uncertain] with very small land
areas and [con-| centrated] [uncertain]
industry, such as [Rhode| Island]
[uncertain] and Connecticut. The study shows.further that 42 senators and 182
representatives have a weekly newspaper
as their homo- 1 own paper. It then said:
All of d those from rural areas depend on weekly newspapers as one of [their]] [uncertain] chief barometers of the
