Attending were 100 public officials, [bustnese] [uncertain] and civic leaders of Houston.

The columnist-commentator ia here on a short visit lo Texas. He came to Houston from Dallas Saturday.

Mr. Sokolaky [sald] [uncertain] that Jesse Jones represented to many of ue the let straw and when he left [(Washington)] [uncertain] the government went socialistic." [lle sald] [uncertain] there is no longer a national Democratic party and that the Republican party needs a going over. Those who hare been Democrats traditionally can [nolonger] [uncertain] continue because the party has no traditions, he added.

Mr. [Sokolaky sald] [uncertain] he had been told there were Democrais and Republi- [rane] [uncertain] in the audience, He apologized to them for anything he might say they [didnt] [uncertain] tike, Then, smiling, he added:

If any of you hare no more re- expect [Yor yourselfvea] [uncertain] than to be for

Truman wont apologize to you."

The columnist said Americans have come to believe too much in slogans
