Grumbling Doesn't Pay.

No matter how difficult things get in life, it is well to remember that they could always be worse. The trouble with the average human is that he only looks at the little misfortunes and seldom acknowledges the little blessings. They never stop to think of the enjoyments and privileges they possess. We are all human, and we seem to never appreciate good health until misfortune is at our door.

LEGION BARBECUE WAS ENJOYED

The annual stag barbecue of Braillford-English Post No. 134, American Legion, held Saturday night at Daniel Boone's Den on Ratcliff Lake, was well enjoyed by a goodly number. However, the attendance was held down by threatening weather and other factors, as far as local people are concerned, and heavy rains which occurred in areas to the south. Visitors were on hand from Houston, Austin, Livingston and other cities.

After the chicken barbecue supper, with all the trimmings, was enjoyed, all political candidates present were introduced. Commander J. H. Reinicke of the local post introduced Walter Ranft of Houston, second division commander. Commander Ranft in turn presented the speaker, Mayor R. C. Grassman of Bay City, member of a national Legion committee. Mayor Grassman gave a resume of activities of the Legion. He also condemned the present national administration for permitting infiltration of socialists and communists into high government places.

COURIER ATTEMPTS RELIEF FOR SOME SUBSCRIBERS

A good life-long subscriber came to the Courier office recently with a problem. She has suffered long without a murmur, but her plight was no longer bearable. She wanted the Courier to either help her out or to help her in, either way. She wanted help, and wanted it badly. The Courier editor, always of a sympathetic nature, offered any assistance available. Taking a long, but hesitating, breath she decided to explain her difficulty. She has good neighbors, and didn't want to hurt their feelings. She said that the Courier came promptly to her home every week, but that her household duties are many. Inasmuch as much of her time is taken up, she does not have the time to conceal her newspaper on its arrival. Therefore, with much regret, she stated that some of her good neighbors, whom she did not desire to offend, had incurred the habit of getting her Courier before she had a chance to read it and before any of the other neighbors had a chance to "snatch it." After this explanation of things, the Courier editor did not know how he felt. He did not know whether he was glad that all the community wanted to read the Courier, or whether he was sorry that the one already subscribing was being prevented from reading it. He finally decided that his sympathies should be with the one doing the subscribing. Scraping up unimpeachable courage, the editor suggested that the country is now under a "police action," a little smack misnomer of the president for war; that wars not only bring about shortages in life, but in many other things, causing governmental restrictions in use; that we would immediately put into effect editorial restrictions on the reading of newspapers, requiring that subscribers who pay are entitled to read newspapers first; that all who pay put up a sign similar to this "To all Courier snatchers: The Crockett Courier, while appreciating the desires of all non-paying subscribers, has declared a public action against Courier snatchers. That Courier reading is restricted to only the ones who pay, and that if any further violations occur, violators will be fined $1.00, the price of a year's subscription, when notice of such violation is made to the editor."

The Courier editor agreed to donate half of each collection to the community church in which resides the person who pledges with selfish pride the deep appreciation by the people of his literature.

CROCKETT LOSES HOST TO ELKHART THIS SUNDAY

Manager Harold Baldree's Crockett baseball crew put on five-thumb exhibition Sunday afternoon at City Park to lose to a makeshift Sardis team 16 to 8. Pitchers Johnny Johnson and Harrell Carpenter were in good form, but received nightmarish support afield.

Only six Sardis players had arrived at game time, so Crockett loaned the visitors three men to complete a lineup. One of these, Aubrey Shaw, hit a bases-full home run to aid in the defeat of the home team.

Sunday afternoon Crockett will be host to the Elkhart team. Elkhart has a good ball club and Baldree hopes his group will be in better shape, capable of putting on an interesting brand of play. It will be the final home appearance of the team for several weeks.

MINOR HIGHWAY ACCIDENT

A minor traffic accident occurred on highway 287, about three miles south of Grapeland, at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning. A car had stuck on the sandy shoulder of the highway and a truck was preparing to cross the highway to pull the car onto the pavement. A man was guiding traffic and an automobile driven by John Owen Moore, a Ford Hood soldier, slowed down to pass. Another car operated by William Monroe Taylor Jr., colored, of Grapeland, collided with the rear of the soldier's vehicle. Damage was minor and no injuries were reported, according to Highway Patrolman A. A. Isbell, who investigated.

COURIER EDITOR AT CONVENTION HAS GOOD TIME

The Courier editor attended the Seventy-third Annual meeting of the Texas Press association last week in Houston. The convention began on Thursday afternoon and finished up Saturday night. O. J. Wilkerson of the Port Neches Chronicle was chairman program.

Registrations began on the mezzanine floor of the Rice hotel at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. At 3 o'clock was the board of directors' meeting. At 6:30 a motion picture of newspaper advancement was shown in the Rice Hotel ballroom.

At 7:30 Friday morning the Early Birds' Breakfast began the day. For this early breakfast the editors were guests of the Texas Gulf Sulphur Company; Mr. Harry C. Webb serving as host.

At 9:30 the meeting was called to order by its president, Brad H. Smith, editor of the Weslaco News, in the south American room of the Rice hotel. The invocation was by Arthur LeFevre Jr., editor of Texaco Topics, Houston.

At 9 o'clock came the president's annual address by Brad H. Smith of Weslaco, and at 9:30 an address by Kenneth L. Dixon of the Lake Charles, La., American-Press. This was followed with "Community Service Projects" by Max Thomas of the Crowley, La., Daily Signal.

At 10:30 an address on "Bringing Industrial Payrolls to Your Town" was delivered by Carl Estes of the Longview News-Journal.

For the 12 o'clock luncheon in the Rice Hotel ballroom the editors were guests of the newspaper supply houses at Houston. The Juncheon speaker was Morris Frank of the Houston Chronicle.

At 3 p. m. a tour of the San Jacinto battleground started, as guests of the Jacinto monument and the Battleship Texas, located nearby.

At 7:30 Saturday morning came the Awards Breakfast, when prizes for awards in various lines of newspaper work were announced.

The noon luncheon was by the Houston Chronicle, Houston Post and Houston Press, in the Rice Hotel ballroom.

At 2 o'clock p. m. the editors left in buses for Freeport and a tour of the Dow Chemical Company properties. The Dow properties are sixty miles south of Houston. A tour of the properties, upon arrival there, was made by bus. About two hours were consumed in touring this immense property, which employs about six thousand people; after which Lake Jackson was visited, where a band and a dancing pavilion were enjoyed. Then came the last feature of the convention, which was a big barbecue given by the Dow Chemical Company under the immense spreading live-oak trees, from which streamed long and beautiful moss, while the moonshine was on the adjacent lake.

Eleven o'clock Saturday night found this editor back in Houston, but Sunday night found him again in his bed at Crockett. The entire trip was a delightful one which shall not soon be forgotten. A number of Crockett people have asked to take this editor's place at the next convention he attends. At this convention in Dallas last year this editor had the pleasure of shaking the hands of General MacArthur, Mrs. MacArthur and their son, but we had better luck than that at this last convention. We are not going to say what that luck was, for fear of being accused of bragging and of having to absorb some unbelief.
