WHO WANTS AN EYEN BREAK?

Bibbee (Ark.) Gazette.

I have found the formula for political success, how to be elected president. It wasn't too hard to figure out; all I had to do was to study the election campaigns of the past twenty years, and there was the answer as big as life.

We know that there are numerous minority groups in the nation who each having a sizeable number of votes; a few million here, a few million there, they all add up to a lot of millions. Now we all know that no body is satisfied with an even break, fifty-fifty. Everybody is looking for the best of the deal. So naturally, the thing to do is promise each group something real good.

There aren't very many rich people there, they are only a very small part of the voting population. People working for wages or salaries, the small business men, the farmers, and old agers, those who are receiving old age assistance, pensions or social security, all these make up more than 95 per cent of the voters, they pay no attention to the rich, but appeal to the voters who have small or moderate incomes.

Promise the worker more wages (but don't tell him that he will have to pay more for everything), promise the farmer better prices and don't tell him that he too will have to pay more. And now the old agers, the steel workers are asked a raise of 24 cents an hour, $2.08 a day. So tell the old agers, who receive assistance or social security, that if you tell them that these old agers non-workers get the same raise, if some smart cookies want to know where the money is coming from, tell him that you'll make the rich people pay it.

That answer has been used successfully for twenty years and it should still be good. It is true that not everybody to whom you make these promises will believe you, but with a big majority they will go over big.

Keep a straight face when making these plausible promises, never let them get the idea that you can't make good on them if elected, but after you

STATE AID FOR CITY STREETS

It will come as a surprise to most Texans when they learn how far the state has gone to the aid of cities in building and maintaining city streets.

It has been a relatively short time since city municipal and civic groups screamed and protested about the toughness within their corporate limits than they were about getting an even break from the state.

As soon as all cities and towns were connected up with a paved road of some kind the state was a gradual dividing up the aid of cities in
