THIS WILD RIDING EDITOR TAKES OFF AGAIN SUNDAY

This hard-riding editor took another ride Sunday afternoon. He has things to do, so he rolled out the west San Antonio road and then rolled it up again. Heading out the new San Antonio highway to Midway, Madison County, passing over Big Creek, once known as Caney Creek, where the patriot, David Crockett, told of an immense canebreak and a bearfight, passing the old black house location near Austin and crossing the Trinity River bridge to where the old Indian and Mexican towns, Bureuil, once stood, we rode on to Midway, Madison County, where we turned to the right and soon intersected the historic old Comal River which is practically the county line between Madison and Leon counties. The Dallas and Houston highway, where plenty of cars seemed to have entered a racing contest, is crossed with some risk at Crossroads and the county line highway followed to Normange. It is a very pleasant drive from Crockett to Normange, passing many substantial farm places, lots of shade trees—something like the road to Porter Springs—and cattle in many pastures, once cultivated. Having been as far as Normange once before, we thought we knew the road to Normange. State Park, and for once we made a good guess. The park is one of nature's gifts—a target mass of moss growing shade trees with a beautiful lake on the left—a scene something like the Crockett Country Club lake. The extended travel between Midway and Normange is light enough to make the drive a very pleasant one. Crockett is on the dividing line between the pine section and the hardwood section.

NEWLY WEDS WRITE COURIER FROM BALTIMORE

Baltimore, Md., August 26, 1952.
We arrived in Baltimore Saturday evening, August 23. Had a very interesting trip up here. We changed our plans and did not go to Florida, instead came through Little Rock, Ark., into Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. We spent one week at Pennsylvania State College, attending the North International Grandstand Congress, which was very interesting. There were fifty-three countries represented. We left the college the morning of the 23rd and arrived here that afternoon. We would like to subscribe for the Crockett Courier for one year and I would also like to have the papers with the writing up of my wedding. Sincerely yours,
Verna Dean and Joel Pomeroy

Coaches Dusty Simmons and Robert Summers were greeted Monday by the smallest squad in years for the 1952 football season's training got under way for the Crockett High Bulldogs. The coaches plan to end the week's work Friday night with a practice scrimmage against Coach Gene Hale's Nacogdoches High Stragons at Nacogdoches. School's opening Monday will cut the workouts to one daily as the Bulldogs prep for their opening game here with Huntsville on September 12.

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC BRINGS ACCIDENTS

Highway Patrolman John Haynie reports an accident about 9:55 p. m. Sunday on highway 103, 2 1/2 miles east of Crockett. A J. Thiboutot of Lufkin was driving toward Crockett, when another car made a turn onto a side road and sideswiped the Lufkin man's vehicle, inflicting an estimated $125 damage to the left side and front fender. The other driver did not stop and officers are looking for the driver. About 10:30 p. m. Sunday, A. W. Johnson, colored, and wife were injured when the steering gear of their truck came loose and the truck crashed into a tree on the Tadmor road north of Hatchiff. The pair were admitted to a local hospital for treatment of lacerations and bruises.

J LYNN MAUK PRESENTED AS GUEST SPEAKER

At the Tuesday, September 2, Lions' Club luncheon four guests were introduced to the club: Mr. E. McMillen of New Iberia; Jamie Clements, state representative of Houston and Walker counties; Miss Mary Brewer, pianist for the Lions' Club meeting, and Gailen Stewart. Lion President Herbert Callaway presided over the business session.

The program was in charge of J. A. Best and Jake Capriellan. Lion Best introduced J. Lynn Mauk, with the Production and Marketing Administration, a branch of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Mr. Mauk brought a timely message, entitled "The Fifth Plate," a story of land, people and food of today, and of future needs. Statistics point out there will be 38 million more people in 1975 than there are now. The U. S. Department of Agriculture points out that it is agriculture's job to fill the fifth plate through better and bigger amounts of food production. This, as was pointed out, can only be done by building up the farm or ranch to meet the future production requirements; first, by the application of research; second, by balanced conservation; third, by expansion of fertilizer capacity; and fourth, use of farm machinery, new equipment, electrical power; fifth, use of farm credit, and fair farm prices. The talk was of vital interest to all concerned and greatly appreciated for its timely message.

The program for September 11 will be under the direction of A. S. Brewer and Dr. John L. Dean.
