The legume plants [niust] [uncertain] be thrifty and make g good growth If the bacteria are to thrive, says Coke, And that is why fertilizers should be used. Lime, [phoaphoreus] [uncertain] and [potes] [uncertain] aa well as the race elements must be supplied if they are lacking in the sell.

According to Coke, fertilizer requirements vary with the different soil type areas of the state. [Ile] [uncertain] general recommendations are that from 200 ta 400 pounds per acre of 0-14-7, 0-12-12 or 3-12-12 be used on the sandy soils and from 200 to 400 pounds of [20] [uncertain] per cent superphosphate per act be applied on other types of soil. He points out that when Iegumes are grown on depleted land, a complete fertilizer such as 5-10-5 should be used at the rate of from 200.400 pounds per acre.

Fertilizer may be applied as part of the seeding operation, says Coke, by using a [fertiliser] [uncertain] attachment on the grain drill or row crop planter.

This joint operation cuts costa and places tho fertilizer where It is readi- ly available to the plants.

Coke points out that the time for planting winter [lexumes] [uncertain] is getting short and the job should be done as soon as possible, Winter legumes, he adds, will give protection to the land during the [wihter] [uncertain] months will provide [hadly] [uncertain] needed grazing can be weed for a cash crop If need are har- vested-o can be turned under next spring as a green manure crop.
