James Ann Smith Dead.

James Ann Smith, a son of the deceased pioneer, Ike Smith, is reported to have died in California recently. He had been living for a number of years in California, but was one of Crockett's popular young men thirty, forty and fifty years ago. While his older relatives have passed on, many of our middle-aged people yet remember him as a popular young man, of a generous nature and likable disposition. He was a brother of the late Sam Smith, whose name still survives in the firm-name of the Smith-Murphy Hardware Company at Crockett.

Plans were also made for some of the leaders to attend the Craft Workshop held in the area at Lufkin on November 13. Also the local finance drive would interfere with their attending the course in Grapeland.

That's Final.

When his health began to fail, an easterner decided to go west to the wide open spaces. In a small town in Arizona, he approached an old man sitting on the steps of the local store. "Say," he asked, "what's the death rate around here?" "Same as it is back east, brother," replied the old fellow, "one to a person."
