LIVESTOCK TALK BY TED GOULDY

Fort Worth, March 24.—In the spring young man's fancy turns to the fair sex, or so the poet says. In the spring the stockman's fancy turns to replacements for his herds and flocks, and the greener hue of the pastures and pushes memories of winter, drought and other troubles far back into the limbo of things to forget.

At Fort Worth Monday this turn of mind became quite evident as stocker and feeder trade perked up and got into high gear for the first time in over a month.

Sharing the spotlight with the better stocker trade, was the Easter lamb market. Some 10,000 sheep and lambs greeted the buyers, and better than 5,000 of them were genuine spring lambs. The trade was very slow getting underway as buyers bid strong prices, but salaried pressed for sharply higher prices.
