

GM Signs TV 'Game of Week' Pact

DETROIT—Contract for the "TV Game of the Week" series for the 1953 season is signed at a meeting in Detroit, Mich., by William F. Hufstader (seated), General Motors vice president in charge of distribution staff, while representatives of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the National Broadcasting Company look on. Standing left to right are Robert J. Kane, Cornell University, and J. Walter Hamilton, president of the Texas Farm Bureau.

LET OTHER PEOPLE RUN THEIR OWN GOVERNMENTS

Some time ago Secretary of State Dulles observed that the Stalin era has ended and the Eisenhower era begun. "Hanging with it now hope for all mankind." He also said, in discussing confounding recent changes in Soviet attitudes, that the Kremlin apparently has launched a "peace offensive" rather than a "peace offensive." He warned that we cannot tell whether this represents a basic change or merely a tactical shift.

It would be a foolish man indeed who would say without qualification that the Kremlin has been completely taken over or forced into a position of sincerely wanting to end the conflict between the communist and the anti-communist worlds. At the same time, some of the most skeptical are coming to feel that very significant developments are taking place within the communist orbit. The most dramatic example of this, of course, occurred in bloody Korea, when Kim Il-sung finally backed up on the promise of war reparations to the United States. The position of the United States. And there have been other signs. For one, Soviet anti-American propaganda has been nowhere near as vicious since Stalin's death as it generally was before—comparatively speaking, it has become mild.

The Iron Curtain is about as opaque as anything can be and a discussion of what may be going on behind it must lean heavily on speculation. But a belief grows that the death of Stalin involved much more than a transfer of absolute power from one man to another. The position of Malenkov does not seem at all comparable to that of his predecessor. He is not deified to anywhere near the same extent by the Soviet press. He shares power with Beria, head of the huge secret police organization, and with the marshals who command the red army. Indeed, some long-experienced observers are saying that the balance of power in Russia today may be in the hands of the army chiefs, some of whom are known to feel that Russia is not equipped to win a world war.

Too, recent developments in atomic weapons on our side of the fence may have made a strong impression in the Kremlin circles. Such a device as the atomic artillery shell, which is relatively small and light, yet enormously destructive, adds new and appalling risks to war. The horrors that another major war would bring to all are almost unimaginable.

In the meantime, the Eisenhower administration stands on five clear, basic precepts which the president put in these words in his speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors:

"First. No people on earth can be held—as a people—in an enemy, for all humanity shares the common hunger for peace and fellowship and justice.

"Second. No nation's security and well-being can be lastingly achieved in isolation, but only in effective cooperation with fellow-nations in the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

"Third. Any nation's right to a form of government and an economic system of its own choosing is inalienable.

"Fourth. Any nation's attempt to dictate to other nations their form of

CONVALESCENT HOMES BEING LOOKED AFTER

Austin, Texas, July 8.—The State Department of Health moved this week to make sure that all nursing and convalescent homes in Texas are looking after the health and safety of their elderly residents.

Acting under authority granted by the last legislature, the health department mailed licensing application forms to several hundred operators, all of whom must now conform to humane standards of operation or close their doors.

That is the health of the new licensing law. These are its terms: Any establishment which provides food and shelter to four or more persons unrelated to the proprietor, and which provides services which most of the residents are unable to perform for themselves, must apply for an operation license from the State Department of Health.

Hospitals, hotels and similar institutions are not included. Nor are homes conducted by or for adherents of a religious order who depend exclusively on prayer or spiritual means for healing.

Application fees have been set by the legislature at $25 per year, plus $1 for each bed maintained by the home. Fees will be applied to paying administrative costs of the law.

The health agency has the authority to make inspections on homes and to revoke licenses for shoddy operation. Home operators can file grievances, complaints in district court in any instance of unfair or arbitrary treatment by the administrators of the home.

Dr. Cox, outspokenly in favor of the licensing law as a method of insuring proper treatment of elderly people, said that the law will not eliminate any of the small, one-room homes in this state, but will eliminate those which are a menace to the health and safety of the community.

Uncle Sam, the government collected more taxes in the last 12 months than in any other year in the nation's history, but still ran up a deficit of $2,345,000,000.

And it is going to start off the new fiscal year, which began Sunday, by borrowing $2,400,000,000 to $3,000,000,000—the biggest net borrowing since the war.

Senator Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, noting these figures, and in an interview Thursday he doubts the Eisenhower administration will be able to make good on tax reduction promises scheduled to take place on January 1, 1954.

Uncle Sam has launched a "peace offensive" rather than a "peace offensive." He warned that we cannot tell whether this represents a basic change or merely a tactical shift.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT INDEED

In the new Western Hills hotel on the outskirts of Fort Worth, it combines the services and conveniences of the conventional hotel, the resort hotel, and the newer motel. Located six miles from the heart of the city, it is only 10 minutes away from the heart of the city.

This all-encompassing establishment of 200 rooms, covering 15 acres, was the dream of a man who was reared in the hotel business. He said his vision and revolutionary ideas in the hotel business, and in true pioneer manner they backed their faith in an idea with their dollars.

Like pioneers of olden days, they found that exploration of unknown frontiers is not easy. Rising costs of construction and a time threatened by the inflationary spiral that has an anticipated $1,500,000 expenditure to $2,000,000. Furnishings that were expected to cost $150,000 actually called for $400,000. We are told that for a time there was a question about whether it could be completed, but these pioneers of modern frontiers persevered and eventually found the fabulous establishment to the public.

Their faith in the frontier of their minds was proved justified by public acceptance that has averaged 22 per cent maximum occupancy since the first of the year.

Truly, Hank Green, who entrusted this nationally known establishment to the management of A. Benesh, Jr., William T. Green, Anthony R. Canning, and Earl M. Mower, who joined in with him in exploring a new frontier, are examples of modern day pioneers. Their efforts—and their accomplishments—should be adequate tribute to those who have up their hands in despair and say there are no frontiers—Italy News Herald.

CONVALESCENT HOMES BEING

LOOKED AFTER

Austin, Texas, July [6—The] [uncertain] State Department of Health moved the week to make [sure] [uncertain] that all [nursing] [uncertain] and convalescent homes in Texas are looking after the health and safety of their elderly [residents.] [uncertain]

Acting under authority granted by the act legislature, the health department mailed licensing application forms to several hundred operators, all of whom must now conform to humane standards of operation or close their door,

As state health officer, Dr. George W. Cox is administrator of the new licensing law. These are its terms:

Any establishment which provides food and shelter to four or more persons unrelated to the [proprietor] [uncertain] and which provides services which meet some need beyond basic provisions of food and shelter and laundry, must apply for an operation [license] [uncertain] from the State Department of [Health.] [uncertain]

Hospitals, hotels and similar institutions are not included. Nor are homes conducted by or for adherents of a religious order who depend [solely] [uncertain] exclusively on prayer or [spiritual] [uncertain] means for healing.

Application [fees] [uncertain] have been set by the legislature at $25 per year, plus [costs] [uncertain] for each bed maintained by the home. [Fees] [uncertain] will be applied to paying administrative costs of the law.

The [health] [uncertain] agency [has] [uncertain] the [xottery] [uncertain] to make inspections on homes and to: [give] [uncertain] licenses for shoddy operation. Home operators can file [complaints] [uncertain] in district court in any instance of unfair or arbitrary treatment by the administrators of the law,

MAJOR PROBLEMS WHICH BENSON WANTS DISCUSSED

Waco, July 3. Secretary of [Aariculture] [uncertain] Esra Taft Denson has turned to the American Farm [Bureac Federation] [uncertain] and the two other general farm [organizatiuna] [uncertain] to tell him [what,] [uncertain] kind of programs American farmer want, according to J. Walter Hammond, president of the Texas Farm Bureau,

Recognition of the major role of farm organizations in policy development was the keynote of aw letter in which the secretary requested the Farm Bureau to discuss five [para-], [uncertain] mount agricultural leaves of today" and give his department the [consenaus] [uncertain] of ideas and suggestions resulting from these discussions,"

The five major problems which Benson asked to be [dlacuased] [uncertain] are!

1. Farm income stability and improvement.
2. Treduction and marketing [adjuatmenta.] [uncertain]
- J. Conservation and improvement of farm resources.
4. Capital needs of agriculture.
5. Trade or aid

President Allin B. Kline of the Amerikan Farm Bureau stated that in addition to these issues, Farm Bureau members are almost [certaln] [uncertain] te discuss and make recommendations with regard to [auch] [uncertain] problems as [(1)] [uncertain] how to create and [malntain] [uncertain] peace In the world; [(2)] [uncertain] how to develop [and]: maintain] [uncertain] a more [atable] [uncertain] general price. [ewe]; (3) [uncertain] how to develop more sound labor-management policies; [(4)] [uncertain] how to protect and improve our free [cholce™] [uncertain] system and [(5)] [uncertain] how to deal with the threat of monopoly power whether-from- industry, labor, agriculture or big government."

SENATOR COLSON RENAMED [TO] [uncertain] COUNCIL

Senator Neville if. Colson of Nava-soda has been re-appointed a member of the Texas Legislative council, ac- cording to an announcement made in Austin [thie] [uncertain] week by [Lieutenant Gor-] [uncertain] error Ben Ramoey:

Mrs. Colson is beginning [aes] [uncertain] second term aa one of the five senators des- [lgnated] [uncertain] by law to serve on this [inpertantinterim] [uncertain] committee, which is composed of member of both the house and the senate.

During her first term on the coun- [cil,] [uncertain] she [waa] [uncertain] the only member named chairman of two committees, The senator headed the standing commit- tee on finance and the-study committee ton highways and roads, which resulted in the recommendation to the Iegislature for [thé] [uncertain] continuation of the Colson [Parmto-Market] [uncertain] reed program.

Additional studies made by the coan- ci! Included taxation, which in one Instance prompted the plugging of tax evasion hop-holes, netting the slate sufficient funds In.one year to finance the council for 20 years. The study of various state agencies also brought about other
