THE FOSTERS PAINT THE OLD HOME PLACE

H. [DB.] [uncertain] Milburn, [Reporting.] [uncertain]

Well, [sakesalive!] [uncertain] Am I peeing things, or [onty] [uncertain] dreaming them? The Fosters have at last gone and painted that rambling old house. [Eve] [uncertain] lived here for some sixty years, and for forty years I've been passing their old home place and wanted to see it painted, but [didnt] [uncertain] ever think I'd live to [swe] [uncertain] it done," said [friendy] [uncertain] neighbor of the Fosters in a good-natured sort of jest.

The J. R. Foster home on North Seventh [atrect luoka] [uncertain] glamorous once again with some ninety coats of white paint which glisten and sparkle in the bright summer sunshine. The huge 16-room rambling Foster home has been the scene of many lavish and brilliant social [affara] [uncertain] in the city for some four [generatiensa.] [uncertain] Mr and Mrs. J. R. Foster are no longer there, but their [indefatigable] [uncertain] spirit of happiness, and for entertainment and good fellowship among friends, lives on among many [todsy.] [uncertain] The family, those who [cerry on™] [uncertain] in the home, are restoring the [uld] [uncertain] home place as was originally, back in the early 1900 [perivt.] [uncertain]

The Foster home should by all [nghts] [uncertain] be called the house of Hospitality," since it has certainly been an Inn for Crockett in giving a much pleasure to both young and old as probably any other place in town.

[Mra] [uncertain] A. S. Lee, who always had Sunday night suppers in this home, said of Mr and Mrs. Foster: "Mm Foster certainly lived-up to her old belief when she said, it takes a heap of living to make a home." Huth [ahe] [uncertain] and Mr. Foster loved people, and never tired of having the house full of [gaicty] [uncertain] and laughter throughout one group of the large family to another one."

Some one asked Mr. Foster [once} [uncertain] why he wouldn't sell off the large corner lot on the southeast side which [iso] [uncertain] part of the huge front lawn, and Mr. Foster is reported to have [re-] [uncertain] plied, "I want a place for my children and their friends to run and play and, besides, I don't want any one to knock the south breeze off of me!" At one time," continued Miss Marion Foster, this lot made the only basketball [cuurt] [uncertain] for [achovl,] [uncertain] and children rushed here after school to play and to get their hands either in the [large}.] [uncertain] barrel of pickles mother had prepared, or scoop over the big box of candy and raisins always kept in the upper ball for their growing appetites. The yard was always full of laughing, happy children at play."

Miss Marion continued: The house is in 190 period house, very [typesd] [uncertain] of the time and age. It is being [restored] [uncertain] to [ite] [uncertain] original look, although the once grey paint on the house and the red trim is giving to white [paint,] [uncertain] and the red trim finish

At the time my father remodeled the house, or rather back in the 1900 period, my father was also in the vehicle business and known from Texarkana to the Gulf as John R. Foster, the [bugry] [uncertain] man." In laying his plans for [remodeling] [uncertain] his home into a two story [6-room] [uncertain] house, with large veranda, he thus provided for his large growing family needs, and his buggy house" was just a stone's throw from his home in fact, it faced what is now known as a [business] [uncertain] district on Sixth street, while his home faced east on the residential action on what was [originally] [uncertain] known as [Church street.] [uncertain]

The original sight is on the Old San Antonio [Koad,] [uncertain] and was marked by a huge oak tree which was felled only recently by high winds here.

Both my mother and my [father.] [uncertain] were born and reared in [Crockett,] [uncertain] where they went to [school] [uncertain] in the old academy under the instruction of [the] [uncertain] late Mr. Page and Mrs. A. R. [Spence.] [uncertain] It was on this name home site that most of their children were born and reared. There are now nine children, 12 grandchildren, 23 great [grandchild-], [ren] [uncertain] and one great great grandchild who cherish the old home town and [aul}] [uncertain] gather around the large [pine,] [uncertain] Christmas tree for their [annua re-] [uncertain] union on December 24. Tradition still carries them back to the unusual fathering, where both young and old [Lylfill] [uncertain] the true Christmas spirit with their [je] [uncertain] and laughter way into the night, greeting Santa Claus in the wee hours of Christmas day. Stockings are never hung until after the Christmas tree on [Christmas] [uncertain] Eve and each has received a gift from each member of the family." [It] [uncertain] is quite interesting to note that [thle] [uncertain] is one place where it takes something larger than a [alocking] [uncertain] to hold [Christmas gifts—the] [uncertain] Foster children used pillow [cunce™] [uncertain] for stockings") Marion continued talking: [At:] [uncertain] Christmas time and the holiday season in [groval] [uncertain] my mothers and [fathers] [uncertain] home was [wue] [uncertain] of the show places" of the town, taking on a most [spec-] [uncertain] tabular fairyland with Santa Claus) gaily [iit] [uncertain] up in the chimney and his eight reindeer nervously jerking his [aleigh] [uncertain] and prancing on the lawn in tune with the many familiar [Christmas] [uncertain] hymns from an old-fashioned [nickelodion] [uncertain] which could be heard from blocks around. Open house was [beld] [uncertain] for all. [Fogumiles orwand] [uncertain] parents brought their children to Santa Claus Land."

As Ford Motor Company's president [Alnce] [uncertain] 1945, and his Mercury Division, and [Willare] [uncertain] automotive progress handed on

Not only many" [merubers] [uncertain] of our earlier days [cttogene] [uncertain] will [reel] [uncertain] the long-remembered hospitality of Mr and [Mra.] [uncertain] Foster in the foster bump, but many of their friends of within, the pant Cen [jyeare] [uncertain] will reest their gracious hospitality. Mr. and Mrs. Foster were ever on hand te greet: [alt] [uncertain] comers end usher them [piaude] [uncertain] where [sume] [uncertain] small [teken] [uncertain] could be handed [cach] [uncertain] child from the big pune tree which was gaily trimmed and hit in, the front parlor."

Marion had seemingly been doing all the talking," but [hile] [uncertain] we listened" we felt that the Foster girls which a host of [prople] [uncertain] in Crockett think of, only ae Mins Alice, Mise [Totaie,] [uncertain] Mise Alline and Mies Margarite" were in on the bit of [cunvetnation,] [uncertain] in spirit" anyway!

But back to Christmas at the [Fostera." [uncertain] and [ecapecialiy] [uncertain] that Christmas [trec.] [uncertain] All jokes aside, the boys of the family, these who were delegated to go and [gtt] [uncertain] the Christmas tree, had to take [down™] [uncertain] the front door, ever) Christmas, to get the tree inside the parlor.

Among the many. [ivokrd] [uncertain] forward te planned festivities in helping with the season was the annual dinner and Christmas tree party [beld] [uncertain] o few days after Christmas by [Mr> Fuster] [uncertain] honoring the famous H. T Club of which she was always president,"

In this [aame pariur] [uncertain] today e still to be found the old time music box." a gift of the Crockett Courser editor, W. W. Alken, [whirh etfl] [uncertain] can be heard all over the house as it plays clearly and loudly [ite] [uncertain] favorite Coma Me Come On and Coax Me," popular tune of a day when dancing was dune a great deal in the home," and et joyed to the fullest.

There are very few [whu,] [uncertain] Ile the editor [(and] [uncertain] the [reporte#] [uncertain] remember and recall) with [grewing] [uncertain] appetite the regular Sunday menu of Forter Supv" [(made] [uncertain] in a dish pen eo that it would be plentiful), fried chicken potato salad, hot [tnacuits, guiden] [uncertain] brown, and ice cream and cake

Those were grand days, and we had grand fun, with Marion [Tuesday] [uncertain] and recalling the many pleasures in this palace" of a Home, Sweet Home."

MOST ACCIDENTS IN AND AROUND WATER" CAN BE PREVENTED

College Station, July [13.—No one}] [uncertain] ever goes fur a swim of participates in water sports with the idea in mind of becoming an accident victim. Water sports can provide [relief] [uncertain] from the, heat and pleasure to the participants if the rules of water are observed. Ignoring [theee] [uncertain] rules, on the other" hand, can result in crippling injuries or death, says [F.C.] [uncertain] Martin, agricultural leader for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and secretary of the [Texns] [uncertain] Farm and Itanch Safety committee.

Martin says the number, of [drown-] inga [uncertain] in in proportion to the care that is exercised by those [whe] [uncertain] participate in water sports. He points out that [If] [uncertain] the seven cardinal water [safety] [uncertain] rules are followed closely, water [aceklente] [uncertain] can be greatly reduced.

[Here] [uncertain] are the safety rules: Never [awim] [uncertain] alone of in [unfamillar] [uncertain] water. Dont try to swim long distances especially in cold water, unless followed by et least two people in a boat. Never dive jato water until you are [ture] [uncertain] that no under-water [odetructions] [uncertain] are present. Dont go into the water fer.
