Losing Money on Printing.

Many weekly newspaper publishers are still printing letterheads, envelopes, etc., at prices far below the amount which would seem necessary to produce any profit, according to the results of the 1953 survey of job printing prices made by the Bureau of Media Service of the School of Journalism of the State University of Iowa.

Guard Well Your Name.

Do you like your name? If you do, you're fortunate. And if you don't you have plenty of company. For scientific studies show that millions of Americans are both uncomfortable and unhappy with the names their parents have hung on them. But whether you like it or not, to you it constitutes the most important words in the language.

MADISON COUNTY
DUE NEW OPENER
FROM BUDA LIME

Information made available Friday indicated a new oil field discovery was in the making for East Madison county on the south side of the east Texas district.

J. B. Stoddard, Dallas, reported that his No. 1 Helen Farris Tinkle, J. A. Bozeman survey, eight miles east and north of Madisonville, had made a good oil recovery in drillstem testing the Buda lime at 9,375-417 feet.

On this test tool was open thirty minutes to get stem return of 6,330 feet of greenish, 36 to 4 gravity oil. There was no water, and the well headed while drilling was being pulled. Bottom-hole flowing pressure was 2,660 pounds, and shut-in pressure was 2,920 pounds in twenty-five minutes.—Dallas News.

NEW TESTS FIXED FOR EAST TEXAS

Expanding wildcat activity in the east Texas district Saturday had brought three more explorations in widely scattered areas.

Counties drawing new ventures were Wood, Red River and Houston.

Houston County—Texmo Oil Company and Feldman Oil & Gas Company, Dallas, have joined to drill a test in the southwest part of this county about five miles north of Wellton. Venture is to be No. 1 Paul R. Maples with drillsite 407 from the east and 1,475 from the north lines of the Barton Clark survey and on a 27.5-acre tract. This should put the well east of the Fort Trinidad field which has production from the Buda and Georgetown limes and the Woodbine sand. Permit depth would test into the Georgetown.

FARM NEWS BY COUNTY AGENT
DAVE TILLER JR.

At a meeting in the district court room last Wednesday night A. H. Walker, extension range specialist, discussed chemical control of brush and C. W. Simmons discussed treating fence posts with preservatives. These two subjects should be of interest to many of our farmers in Houston county. By controlling brush and worthless hardwoods on much of our land, we could possibly double our current stocking rate. This brush control problem may be very expensive if one undertakes a large acreage at one particular time; however, breaking the work down into a several years' project would fit the bill very well for most farmers. This way the work tends to pay for itself as progress is made.

In many areas of the state aerial applications have materially reduced the cost of brush control. Average cost of aerial applications runs between two and three dollars per acre with good results. Aerial application is not recommended for this area because of the drift hazard. The drift from 2, 4, 5-T, the chemical giving the best results, will also damage cotton and several legumes. However, early last spring, 100 acres of bottomland in Freestone county was sprayed by plane giving good results. The application was made before cotton planting time. The danger of damage to crops by drift is reduced by using a knap-sack sprayer and individual tree trunk treatment.

Ammate can be used, but hasn't given the results that 2, 4, 5-T has and usually is more expensive. If you are interested in this problem on your farm or ranch, or if you have some particular question, come by the county agent's office and get the bulletin "More Grass From Controlling Hardwoods with Chemicals." This bulletin is very complete, listing kinds of trees and brush, the chemical and the mixture to use, the season to apply, and remarks regarding the different kinds of trees.

Preserving fence posts for a longer usable period, covered by Mr. Simmons, in another phase we need to emphasize. Some posts considered worthless can be treated by one of several methods on the farm and be made long-lasting posts. Some of the preservatives mentioned by Mr. Simmons include pentachlorophenol, cre-
